LOUISIANA STATE UNIVERSITY HEALTH SCIENCES CENTER at NEW ORLEANS
FY2020-21 – FY2024-25 Strategic Plan Pursuant To Act 1465 of 1997

In Compliance with Act 1465 of 1997, each strategic plan must include the following process:

I. A brief, general description of how the strategic planning process was implemented.

The LSU Health Sciences Center at New Orleans Strategic Planning Committee, consisting of representatives from all areas of the campus, developed the current Strategic Plan to provide direction and an integrative framework for planning and implementing the goals that support our mission and to establish a foundation for accountability that is fundamental for continuous improvement within all our programs and activities. The goals, objectives, and strategies are established in each of our core functional areas in a manner to ensure the ability to regularly monitor outcomes and incorporate that data into future decision making. The ten year strategic plan is understood to be the basis of an ongoing process of assessment, analysis and planning; it represents an incremental approach that over time will redirect and acquire resources, both intellectual and financial, required for goal implementation, based upon regular measurement and feedback evaluation.

II. A brief statement identifying the principal clients and users of each program and the specific service or benefit derived by such persons or organizations:

As Louisiana's flagship academic health center, educating roughly 70% of Louisiana's health care professionals, the LSU Health Sciences Center at New Orleans maintains a statewide mission with a national and international responsibility to provide excellence in health professions' education, medical care and community-oriented programs. It is a doctoral research university, enrolling roughly 2,800 students each year whose offerings are limited to programs in biomedical fields and the health professions. LSUHSC-NO delivers vital public service through direct patient care, including care of indigent and uninsured patients. LSUHSC-NO provides referral services, continuing education, and information relevant to the public health of Louisiana's citizens. LSUHSC-NO faculty conduct cutting edge basic and applied research in the biosciences and improved approaches to health care, with a special focus in alcohol and drug abuse, cancer, cardiovascular disease, infectious disease, neurosciences, and oral health. LSUHSC-NO offers clinical services to patients through the education of healthcare professionals, public health programs, and graduate medical education.

III. An identification of potential external factors that are beyond the control of the entity and that could significantly affect the achievement of its goals or objectives:

A significant external factor, beyond the control of the LSUHSC-NO but directly impacting its ability to meet its goals and objectives, is the level of state funding appropriated annually for both healthcare and higher education functions. Other external factors that could significantly affect the attainment of goals and objectives are regulatory changes at either a federal or state level; changes in standards set out for accreditation by either regional or specialized accrediting agencies; changes in the rules and regulations of the LSU Board of Supervisors; and changes in varying levels of external economic factors which have an impact on the availability of federal or state funding streams available.

IV. The statutory requirement or other authority for each goal of the plan.

- Master Plan for Public Postsecondary Education, Board of Regents, State of Louisiana, March 2012
- Louisiana Constitution of 1974, Article VIII, Section 7
- Louisiana Revised Statutes, 17:3351-3352
- Reaffirmation of Accreditation, Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, Commission on Colleges, 2015

FY2020-21 – FY2024-25 Strategic Plan Pursuant To Act 1465 of 1997

V. A description of any program evaluation used to develop objectives and strategies.

LSUHSC-NO engages in ongoing, integrated, institution-wide research-based planning and evaluation. The university uses a framework for strategic planning and evaluation of institutional performance that insures congruence with the university's mission, goals, and outcomes. As noted in CS 3.1.1 (Mission), LSUHSC's review of its mission is guided by Permanent Memorandum PM-38 (Institutional Mission Statements) and procedures created to comply with PM-38. The university's overarching Strategic Plan provides direction and guidance for planning and evaluation of activities that impact institutional effectiveness. Outcomes are monitored to provide the feedback needed to insure continuous improvement. In addition to guidance provided by the LSUHSC-NO Strategic Plan, each professional school creates its own unique set of strategic goals and objectives that support the mission of the institution. Though the faculty governance structure differs from school to school, the administrative leaders, faculty councils, and faculty committees play key roles in strategic development for their respective schools. The planning process includes, but is not limited to, a due diligence review of current program goals and objectives and their achievement status as well as a review of recommendations from external bodies (e.g., governmental agencies, accreditors, and professional groups); external benchmarks and recommendations from peer groups and the community of interest; feedback from students, faculty, and faculty leaders; a review of budgetary issues; and personnel, technology, and material resources. Proposals are reviewed and revised based on feedback from faculty and faculty committees/councils, students, and community leaders. Final strategic plans are approved by a vote of the faculty. School-specific strategic plans are operationalized by faculty leaders and committees/councils.

VI. An explanation of how duplication of effort will be avoided when the operations of more than one program are directed at achieving a single goal, objective, or strategy.

For the purposes of Act 1465 of 1997, LSUHSC-NO is a single program and thus duplication of effort is not applicable.

VII. Documentation as to the validity, reliability, and appropriateness of each performance indicator, as well as the method used to verify and validate the performance indicators as relevant measures of each program's performance.

See Performance Indicator Documentation which follows.

VIII. A description of how each performance indicator is used in management decision making and other agency processes.

See Performance Indicator Documentation which follows.
